Case No.: 3:07-cv-2446 MMC

JOINT CASE MANAGEMENT
STATEMENT, FRCP 26(F) REPORT
AND [PROPOSED] ORDER

Date: August 17, 2007
Case Mgmt Conf: August 24, 2007
Time: 10:30 a.m.
Judge: Hon. Maxine M. Chesney
Courtroom: 7, 19th Floor

Date Action Filed: May 7, 2007

1 The parties to this action jointly submit this Rule 26 Case Management Statement.

2 A. DESCRIPTION OF THE CASE

3 1. Jurisdiction and Service.

4 The parties are unaware of any service of process, personal jurisdiction, subject matter
5 jurisdiction, or venue issues at this time. However, Defendants contend that HSBC Bank USA,
6 NA is not a proper defendant in this matter and should be dismissed.

7 2. Plaintiffs' Claims.

8 Plaintiffs' Amended Complaint alleges nine causes of action relating to: (1) wage and 9 hour claims under the Fair Labor Standards Act ("FLSA"), as well as California, New Jersey
10 and New York state law; (2) unfair business practices under California law; and (3) retaliation
11 for protected activity under the FLSA and California law. See Plaintiffs' Amended Complaint.

12 3. Facts Related to the Amended Complaint.

13 Plaintiffs' wage and hour causes of action under the FLSA (nationwide) and/or state law
14 (California, New Jersey and New York) pertain to "Retail Mortgage Lending Consultants" and 15 "Senior Retail Mortgage Lending Consultants" (who Plaintiffs contend are also known as "loan
16 officers"), "Field Administrators" and "Senior Field Administrators" (who Plaintiffs contend are 17 also known as "sales assistants"), and other non-management mortgage sales employees.
18 Plaintiffs also allege that Defendants retaliated against Frederic Chaussy in retaliation for raising
19 a protected wage complaint. Plaintiffs seek to certify a nationwide collective action that includes 20 the positions listed above for a violation of the alleged wage and hour claims. Plaintiffs also seek 21 to certify California, New York, and New Jersey classes (Rule 23) that include these same
22 positions listed above for their alleged wage and hour claims under California/New York/New
23 Jersey law (respectively) within the period four/six/two years (respectively) prior to the filing date
24 of the Complaint.

25 B. DISPUTED FACTUAL AND LEGAL ISSUES

26 According to Plaintiffs, the principal factual and legal issues that the parties dispute are:

- 27 • To what extent, if any, was HSBC Bank USA, NA an arms'-length transactor with respect
28 to HSBC Mortgage Corporation (USA)'s practices and overall management.

- Whether loan officers and sales assistants at HSBC were classified as non-exempt, and if so, when they were so classified.
- The number of hours worked per day or per week by each Plaintiff and/or class member.
- Whether HSBC maintained accurate records of the hours worked by Plaintiffs and/or each member of the putative class.
- Whether HSBC had knowledge of any unpaid overtime worked by Plaintiffs and/or each member of the putative class.
- Whether HSBC appropriately compensated any overtime worked by Plaintiffs and/or each member of the putative class.
- Whether HSBC authorized and provided meal and/or rest periods for each Plaintiff and/or class member.
- Whether HSBC had knowledge of any improperly compensated meal and/or rest periods for each Plaintiff and/or class member.
- Whether HSBC provided accurate, itemized wage statements.
- Whether HSBC paid each Plaintiff and/or class member properly at their termination of employment.
- The amount of damages, if any, suffered by Plaintiffs and/or each member of the putative class.
- Whether notice of this collective action should be provided to putative class members pursuant to Hoffman La-Roche, Inc. v. Sperling, 493 U.S. 165 (1989).
- Whether the California, New Jersey, and New York classes are appropriate for Fed.R.Civ.P. 23 class certification.
- If the Plaintiffs were ever classified as exempt employees during the statutory period, whether there was any justification for such.
- Assuming liability is found, whether Defendants' failure to pay overtime to each Plaintiff and/or class member was willful.
- Assuming liability is found, whether Defendants' failure to appropriately provide and/or compensate meal/rest periods for each Plaintiff and/or class member was willful.
- Whether HSBC acted in good faith and/or had reasonable grounds for believing that it paid all sums considered to be legally due to each Plaintiff.
- Whether a collective and/or class action certification is appropriate in this case.
- Entitlement to and/or the amount of penalties claimed by each Plaintiff and/or class member.
- Entitlement to and/or the amount of attorneys' fees claimed by each Plaintiff and/or class member.

According to Defendants, the parties dispute the following factual and legal issues.

- Whether HSBC Bank USA, NA is an improper Defendant in this matter;
- Whether Plaintiffs can properly maintain FLSA collective action claims in the same case as Rule 23 class action claims, see, e.g., Leuthold v. Destination America, Inc., 224 F.R.D. 462 (N.D. Cal. 2004); Edwards v. City of Long Beach, 467 F.Supp.2d 986 (C.D. Cal. 2006);

- Whether it is appropriate for named Plaintiffs to maintain a claim for premiums or penalties under California Business and Professions Code § 17200, et seq., Korea Supply Co. v. Lockheed Martin Corp., 29 Cal. 4th 1134, 1146, 1148 (2003);
- Whether HSBC Mortgage Corporation (USA) was required to pay overtime to named Plaintiffs and putative class members;
- Whether named Plaintiffs and putative class members worked in excess of 8 hours in a day and/or 40 hours per week;
- Whether Plaintiff Chaussy and putative class members were properly paid all wages due and owing upon termination (California only);
- Whether Plaintiffs and putative class members were provided properly itemized wage statements (California only);
- Whether HSBC Mortgage Corporation (USA) was required to provide meal and rest periods to Plaintiffs Wong and Chaussy and putative class members (California only);
- Whether named Plaintiffs Wong and Chaussy and putative class members were afforded the opportunity to take meal and rest periods (California only);
- Whether HSBC Mortgage Corporation (USA) kept accurate records regarding hours worked with respect to Plaintiff Shearn and putative class members (New Jersey only);
- Whether this action can be maintained as a class action;
- Whether the individual issues of proof (actual working hours and meal and rest periods for numerous job classifications at many separate locations) predominate to such an extent that any purported class lacks commonality;
- Whether Plaintiffs are appropriate class representatives, as they have not worked in all positions claimed to be included in Plaintiffs' class definitions: Retail Mortgage Lending Consultants, Senior Retail Mortgage Lending Consultants, Field Administrators, Senior Field Administrators and other unspecified "non-management mortgage sales employees";
- Whether plaintiff and the putative class members were properly classified as overtime exempt employees under various FLSA, California, New Jersey and/or New York exemptions, including exemptions related to salespersons;
- Whether Plaintiff Chaussy was lawfully terminated from employment with HSBC Mortgage Corporation (USA);
- Whether named Plaintiff Shearn ever performed services for HSBC Mortgage Corporation in both New Jersey and New York;
- Whether named Plaintiffs accurately reported time worked to HSBC Mortgage Corporation (USA);
- Whether HSBC Mortgage Corporation (USA) had knowledge of any of the alleged unlawful acts in Plaintiffs' Amended Complaint;
- Assuming HSBC Mortgage Corporation (USA) had any knowledge of the alleged unlawful acts described in Plaintiffs' Amended Complaint, whether HSBC Mortgage Corporation (USA) acted willfully; and
- Whether Plaintiffs and putative class members are entitled to damages, and if yes, what is the amount.

C. MOTIONS

Plaintiffs propose filing their motion for Rule 23 class certification by March 31, 2008.

1 Plaintiffs propose filing their motion for conditional certification (first-tier analysis) of an FLSA
2 class by October 31, 2008. Defendants intend to oppose any motion regarding Rule 23 or FLSA
3 conditional certification. Defendants have already filed a Motion to Dismiss or, alternatively,
4 Motion to Strike portions of Plaintiffs' Amended Complaint, which Plaintiffs timely opposed.
5 This Motion is scheduled to be heard by the Court on August 24, 2007. Defendants further 6 anticipate filing any other dispositive motions that may be necessary to eliminate portions of 7 Plaintiffs' claims as the matter proceeds.

8 D. AMENDMENT OF PLEADINGS

9 Plaintiffs amended the Complaint on June 29, 2007. Plaintiffs seek to certify this case as 10 a collective/class action. At this time, no additional parties are known to Plaintiffs apart from 11 potential additional "opt-in" Plaintiffs under the FLSA. Currently, approximately a dozen "opt-
12 in" Plaintiffs have filed consent forms to join this lawsuit. Plaintiffs have notified Defendants that 13 they may add additional named Plaintiffs and additional state Rule 23 class claims in the future.
14 Plaintiffs intend to conduct a Fed.R.Civ.P. 30(b)(6) deposition of HSBC Bank USA, NA,
15 beginning on August 30, 2007, and, in light of the results of such, and appropriate 16 written/document discovery production, along with other depositions, will assess whether to 17 amend to exclude HSBC Bank USA, NA, and/or add other Defendants as named parties.
18 Plaintiffs also intend to substitute named Defendants for Doe Defendants after discovery reveals 19 their identities.

20 Defendants' deadline to respond to the Amended Complaint was July 19, 2007. On that 21 date, Defendants filed a Motion to Dismiss parts of the Amended Complaint, under Fed.R.Civ.P.
22 12(b)(6). Alternatively, the Motion seeks to strike portions of the Amended Complaint under 23 Fed.R.Civ.P. 12(f). Plaintiffs opposed this motion and Defendants replied. The 12(b)(6) motion
24 is set for hearing before the Court on August 24, 2007 at 9:00 a.m. At this time, Defendants do
25 not believe additional parties will need to be joined. However, Defendants maintain that HSBC
26 Bank USA, NA is an improper Defendant in this matter and must be dismissed.

27 E. EVIDENCE PRESERVATION

28 The parties have made efforts to preserve both electronic and other evidence, including

1 putting a destruction hold on potentially relevant electronic and other information and documents.

2 F. DISCLOSURES

3 The parties agree to waive initial disclosures because Plaintiffs have already commenced
4 discovery and Defendants will conduct discovery. However, as discussed infra, the parties
5 disagree as to how discovery should be conducted.

6 G. DISCOVERY TO DATE

7 Bryan Schwartz for the Plaintiffs and Michelle Barrett for the Defendant have met and 8 conferred about this Joint Case Management Report, in person and over the telephone, in 9 anticipation of the Court's Case Management Conference. The Case Management Conference is 10 set for August 24, 2007 at 10:30 a.m. Plaintiffs served a Notice of Taking of Deposition Pursuant 11 to Fed.R.Civ.P. 30(b)(6), and re-served an amended notice, setting depositions of the two named
12 Defendants for agreed-upon dates, on August 30 and September 11, 2007, respectively. Plaintiffs 13 anticipate taking full, Fed.R.Civ.P. 30(b)(6) depositions of the two current named Defendants on 14 these dates.

15 Defendants only agreed to these depositions for the purpose of determining whether 16 Plaintiffs will voluntarily dismiss Defendant HSBC Bank USA, NA from this action. Plaintiffs'
17 Amended Notices of Deposition touch on subjects well beyond this issue. As discussed below,
18 Defendants believe that discovery should be conducted in a phased or tiered approach; thus,
19 Defendants maintain that merits discovery should not be conducted during these depositions.

20 On July 11, 2007, Plaintiffs emailed (and on July 12, 2007 mailed) to counsel for 21 Defendant HSBC Mortgage Corporation a first set of interrogatories, document requests, and 22 admissions requests. Defendant HSBC Mortgage responded to these discovery requests on 23 August 13, 2007. The parties preliminarily met and conferred regarding Defendant HSBC
24 Mortgage Corporation's discovery responses on August 16, 2007. While certain issues have been 25 touched upon through this meet and confer effort, the parties continue to discuss the matter in an
26 effort to resolve many differences related to Defendant HSBC Mortgage Corporation's discovery 27 responses.

28 Plaintiffs assert that Defendant HSBC Mortgage Corporation's responses are entirely non-

1 responsive and incomplete, and anticipate filing a motion to compel shortly if the parties are
2 unable to resolve the matter. Defendant HSBC Mortgage Corporation contends that Plaintiffs
3 discovery requests are premature and may result in unnecessary discovery efforts, given
4 Defendants' pending Motion to Dismiss or, alternatively, Motion to Strike (discussed below).
5 Further, Defendant HSBC Mortgage Corporation contends that the responses are neither "entirely 6 non-responsive" nor "incomplete" as objections to all requests were served and answers to many
7 of the requests were also provided. Finally, as discussed below, Defendants believe that merits
8 discovery should wait until after class certification discovery occurs and Plaintiffs' motion on 9 conditional FLSA and/or Rule 23 class certification are resolved.

10 H. SCOPE OF ANTICIPATED DISCOVERY AND SCHEDULE

11 Plaintiffs propose that discovery proceed simultaneously on class discovery and merits
12 discovery, for maximum judicial efficiency. They also agree that Defendants can take discovery 13 of, including depositions of all the opt-in plaintiffs without leave of court, and that they will 14 likewise take discovery of, including depositions of, all of the relevant witnesses (including co-15 workers and managers) relating to the claims of all of the opt-in plaintiffs, without leave of court.
16 Plaintiffs also anticipate that all discovery (class discovery and merits discovery) shall be 17 commenced in time to be completed by March 31, 2008. Plaintiffs propose that designation of 18 expert witnesses should be completed by March 1, 2008, and disclosures of expert reports and/or 19 opinions by March 15, 2008. Finally, Plaintiffs believe that expert discovery should be 20 commenced in time to be completed by April 15, 2008.

21 Defendants believe that judicial economy would be best served if any discovery were
22 limited to only the three named Plaintiffs until such as the Court has ruled on Defendants Motion
23 to Dismiss or, alternatively, Motion to Strike, as the parties will waste time and resources
24 engaging in discovery on subjects that may be dismissed by the Court. Further, Defendants
25 believe that discovery is best conducted by using a phased approach of exploring class
26 certification issues first and the merits of the claims second. Defendants also believe that 27 Plaintiffs do not have an absolute right to information for all putative class members. Rather,
28 class discovery can be conducted on a limited basis through providing a random sampling of

1 information related to a limited set of individuals to Plaintiffs. This random sampling will
 2 provide much more statistically significant information that if Plaintiffs are allowed to pick and 3 choose only information that supports their claims. Defendants do not agree with Plaintiffs'
 4 suggested approach of completing all discovery by March 31, 2008, as it would prevent any 5 discovery after hearing on Plaintiffs' motion for class certification, which Plaintiffs propose to 6 file by April 30, 2008.

7 Defendants believe that any discovery deadlines should turn upon whether the action is 8 certified as a collective action and/or class action and the dates set by the Court for these motions.
 9 If Plaintiffs fail to certify a collective or class action, very limited additional discovery will be 10 required on the merits of the case. If an FLSA collective class or a Rule 23 class is certified, the 11 parties will need adequate time following the opt-in or opt-out process to conduct merits
 12 discovery for opt-in plaintiffs and/or Rule 23 class members. As a result, Defendants respectfully
 13 request that the Court allow the issue of discovery deadlines to be reopened after the Court issues
 14 any order denying or granting Plaintiffs' collective or class motions. If a Rule 23 class is not 15 certified, Defendants preliminarily propose the following deadlines for discovery:

- 16 • Discovery (excluding experts): six (6) months after denial;
- 17 • Expert Witness Disclosure: five (5) months after denial;
- 18 • Rebuttal Expert Witness Disclosure: six (6) months after denial;
- 19 • Expert Witness Discovery Deadline: nine (9) months after denial.

20 If a Rule 23 class is certified, Defendants preliminarily propose the following deadlines:

- 21 • Discovery (excluding experts): ten (10) months after denial;
- 22 • Expert Witness Disclosure: eight (8) months after denial;
- 23 • Rebuttal Expert Witness Disclosure: nine (9) months after denial;
- 24 • Expert Witness Discovery Deadline: ten (10) months after denial.

25 If the Court conditionally certifies an FLSA class and a significant number of opt-in plaintiffs
 26 join, Defendants believe these discovery deadlines will likely need to be extended by the Court.

27 I. CLASS ACTIONS

28 1. Plaintiffs' statement regarding class action allegations (Local Rule 16-9(b))

The action is maintainable as a class action under Fed.R.Civ.P. 23(b)(1), (b)(2), and (b)(3). This action is brought on behalf of the following class: All persons who are or have been

1 employed by Defendants as “Retail Mortgage Lending Consultants” and “Senior Retail Mortgage
2 Lending Consultants” (also known as “loan officers”), “Field Administrators” and “Senior Field
3 Administrators” (also known as “sales assistants”), and other non-management mortgage sales
4 employees, who were misclassified as exempt, and therefore erroneously denied overtime, meal
5 and rest period compensation as required by state wage and hour laws, and/or were not paid fully 6 for overtime hours worked (required to work “off-the-clock”), within the State of California/New 7 York/New Jersey (respectively) within the period four/six/two years (respectively) prior to the 8 filing date of the Complaint. (See Compl. at ¶¶ 3-5.) The facts showing that the party is entitled
9 to maintain the action under Fed.R.Civ.P. 23(a) and (b) are as follows:

10 (i) Numerosity: Plaintiffs believe, and have alleged that proposed class consists of 11 hundreds of people who satisfy the definition.

12 (ii) Typicality: Plaintiffs Wong, Chaussy, and Shearn are members of the proposed 13 classes, alleging the same claims as the class. Plaintiffs have no interests that are 14 adverse to those of the other class members.

15 (iii) Commonality: Common questions of fact and law, for the Rule 23 classes, include but 16 are not limited to the following: (1) whether members of the Proposed Class were 17 ever classified as exempt employees during the statutory period; (2) whether 18 Defendants unlawfully failed to pay appropriate overtime compensation to members
19 of the Proposed Classes; (3) whether Defendants employed Plaintiffs and the Proposed 20 Class within the meaning of the applicable state laws; (4) the proper measure of 21 damages sustained by the Proposed Class; (5) whether Defendants’ actions were 22 “willful;” and, as to the California class, (6) whether Plaintiffs and the Proposed 23 California Class members who are no longer employed with Defendants are entitled to 24 waiting time penalties; (7) whether Defendants’ policies and practices provide and/or 25 authorize meal and rest periods in compliance with California law; (8) whether 26 Defendants provided adequate itemized wage statements to the Plaintiffs and the Class
27 pursuant to Labor Code section 226; and (9) whether Defendants’ conduct violated the 28 California Unfair Practices Act set forth in the Business and Professions Code sections

17200 et seq. by violating state and federal law as set forth herein.

(iv) Adequacy: Plaintiffs' attorneys are well-qualified and very experienced in representing Plaintiffs in wage and hour collective/class actions. Plaintiffs understand their duties as class representatives and are willing and able to perform them.

(v) Predominance and Superiority: The issues of fact and law identified above predominate over any individual issues in this lawsuit. Further, a class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of the controversy, particularly in the context of wage and hour litigation where individual plaintiffs lack the financial resources to vigorously prosecute separate lawsuits in federal court against large corporate Defendants. Moreover, judicial resources would be wasted if multiple courts were required to hear the same evidence regarding Defendants' business and compensation policies and practices. A single class action efficiently resolves these claims in one court.

Plaintiffs propose filing their motion for class certification by April 30, 2008.

2. OTHER CLASS ACTION ISSUES

Defendant denies that the action is maintainable as a class action or a collective action. Plaintiffs propose filing their motion for Rule 23 class certification by March 31, 2008. Plaintiffs propose filing their motion for tier-one, conditional certification of an FLSA class by October 31, 2007.

J. RELATED CASES

Presently, the parties are unaware of any related cases or proceedings.

K. RELIEF

Plaintiffs' prayer for relief is detailed at ¶96 of the Amended Complaint. Prior to discovery, Plaintiffs cannot calculate the precise extent of damages to the class, however, this calculation will be based upon a standard formula, wherein Plaintiffs receive 1.5 or 2 times Plaintiffs' regular rates of pay, multiplied by Plaintiffs' good-faith estimates of hours of overtime worked (see Anderson v. Mt. Clemens Pottery Co., 328 U.S. 680 (1946)), plus, in California,

1 premiums for meal and rest periods missed, plus applicable penalties/punitive measures available
2 under the statutes, and liquidated damages, plus interest, attorneys fees and costs. Plaintiffs can
3 state generally that the total amount in controversy exceeds $5,000,000.00.

4 Defendants have not filed any counterclaims and, thus, are not presently seeking any relief
5 from the Court in this matter. If liability is established in this matter, Defendants currently 6 contend that any damage calculations must be performed on an individualized basis, as each
7 named Plaintiff and putative class member will have worked different lengths of time, different
8 amounts of time, and individualized facts will affect any damages suffered by them.

10
11 L. SETTLEMENT AND ADR

12 It is too early in the case to explore the issue of settlement. However, the parties remain
13 willing to consider, in good faith, settlement discussions, as the case progresses. The parties have 14 filed a Stipulation and Proposed Order Selecting Early Neutral Evaluation to be completed before
15 December 31, 2007, which has been approved by the Court.

16 M. CONSENT TO MAGISTRATE JUDGE FOR ALL PURPOSES

17 The matter has been assigned to the Honorable U.S. District Court Judge Maxine M.
18 Chesney, as Defendants did not consent to assignment to a Magistrate Judge for all purposes.

19 N. OTHER REFERENCES

20 The parties do not agreed to binding arbitration, nor do they believe this matter is suitable 21 for reference to a special master, or the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation.

22 O. OTHER REFERENCES

23 It is too early in the litigation to determine whether issues can be narrowed for trial to 24 expedite the presentation of evidence. However, the parties to work in good faith to determine if 25 any issues may be narrowed, as the case progresses. Should the matter proceed to trial, 26 Defendants may request that any damages phase be bifurcated from the liability phase, and 27 Plaintiffs may oppose such a request.

P. EXPEDITED SCHEDULE

The parties do not believe this matter can be resolved on an expedited schedule.

Q. TRIAL SCHEDULE

1. Deadlines

Plaintiffs propose the following deadlines:

- Dispositive Motion Deadline – Served, Filed and Heard by June 30, 2008.
- Final Pretrial Conference Deadline – July 31, 2008.
- Proposed Trial Date – August 29, 2008, or sixty (60) days from the Court’s ruling on any dispositive motions.

Defendants believe that the following deadlines should be set:

- Dispositive Motion Deadline – one hundred twenty (120) days before trial.
- Final Pretrial Conference Deadline – thirty (30) days prior to trial.
- Proposed Trial Date – set after the Court rules on any collective or class action motions.

Defendants do not anticipate the parties being ready for a trial in this matter prior to August 2008 if the Court should grant any part of Plaintiffs’ anticipated class certification motion(s).

2. Length of Trial

Plaintiffs expect trial to last approximately fourteen to twenty-one (14-21) days. In Defendants’ view, a trial’s length will largely depend upon whether the Court grants Defendants’ Motion to Dismiss or, alternatively, Motion to Strike. Further, a trial’s length will also depend on the number of claims that remain in the case if trial should occur. If one or multiple classes are certified, Defendants believe that a trial would last approximately thirty (30) to forty (40) days given the individual issues pertaining to each putative class member that would need to be addressed. If no classes are certified, Defendants believe that a trial run approximately five (5) to seven (7) days.

3. Jury or Bench Trial

Plaintiffs have demanded a jury trial.

R. DISCLOSURE OF NON-PARTY INTERESTED ENTITIES OR PERSONS

The parties have not yet filed the “Certification of Interested Entities or Persons” pursuant to Civil L.R. 3-16. The parties will do so prior to the Case Management Conference.

1 S. NO PROPOSED CASE MANAGEMENT CONFERENCE ORDER

2 Given the parties' differences regarding discovery and relevant deadlines, the parties have
3 not submitted a Proposed Order and respectfully request the Court enter its own Case
4 Management Order.
